BROOKS: 7,191 RESIDENTS PARTICIPATE IN FINAL VIRTUAL TOWN HALL

28,191 Residents Participate in Series

County Executive Maggie Brooks today announced that 7,191 County residents participated in last evening's Virtual Town Hall Meeting. The meeting was the fourth and final in a series to seek input from taxpayers to address the significant financial resource gap facing the community. A total of 28,191 Monroe County residents participated in this series of Virtual Town Hall Meetings.

"I would like to thank each and every resident who participated in this series of Virtual Town Hall Meetings for offering their input and ideas as we work to close our community resource gap," said Brooks. "These meetings allowed us to reach thousands of residents who were able to offer valuable cost savings and revenue generating ideas, which will help my team and I come up with a permanent budget solution for our community."

The Virtual Town Hall Meeting is an exciting new technology that was created to allow elected officials to have discussions with large constituencies.

The Virtual Town Hall Meetings have concluded; however, residents are encouraged to contact County Executive Brooks at countyexecutive@monroecounty.gov with additional cost saving and revenue generating ideas.
