Introduction

The Monroe County Assigned Counsel Program marked its twenty fourth year of operation in all courts within Monroe County. It was also the thirteenth year of operation for the Conflict Defender Office.

In 2015 The Conflict Defender Office was able to fill staff and attorney positions vacated in 2014. Additionally, by the end of the year 2015, one additional support staff position was increased from part to full time, and a seventh family court attorney position was filled; totaling three support staff, and three family court attorney positions filled pursuant to grants from Indigent Legal Services of New York State (OILS). In the overall, the internal office staff was increased and stabilized, leading to greater coverage in the courts, fewer issues, and an overall sense of program stability. Outside support services such as investigation and service of process continued to be done on a contract basis. The attorneys in the office continued to represent clients in conflict cases in Family Court, Rochester City Court and all of the appellate courts. All cases in local criminal courts, all felony cases and all statutorily assigned cases in Superior Court are still assigned to private counsel under the Joint Monroe County/Monroe County Bar Association Plan for Conflict Assignments.

The following statistical information shows the Program's relative success in meeting the goals of the Plan:

"The objectives of this conflict assignments plan are to provide quality representation to eligible indigent defendants or other litigants in those cases where the Public Defender has a conflict of interest; to provide a coordinated and centralized assignment system for conflict cases arising in the courts specified in Article IV herein; to provide a more equitable distribution of conflict assignments among lawyers; to attract more lawyers willing to handle conflict assignments; to maintain uniform and proper billing practices; to ensure cost accountability of services, and to provide increased efficiency for the courts by making qualified attorneys more readily available to handle conflict cases."

Monroe County Bar Association Sponsored Plan for Conflict Assignments, ARTICLE II. Plan Objectives

"To Provide Quality Representation"

2015 saw an increase in certain case assignments to the Assigned Counsel Program and Conflict Defender Office from a number of courts; including primarily Family Court, and a continued high level of case assignments from The Supreme Court Appellate Division Fourth Department, as well as slightly more D & E felony assignments. Homicide cases were down from 45 cases to 35, an obvious reduction. Notable was the substantial increase in Family Court assignments, which were up approximately twenty percent (20%). Additionally, the number of appellate assignments remained very high, and might be signaling a new yearly pattern of increase. A number of the appeals initially assigned to The Office of The Conflict Defender needed re-assigning to independent counsel due to a conflict of interest. Also, some of the appeals being assigned to CDO were/are already three-four years old, which means that they may need to be assigned out to an ACP attorney due to concerns regarding potential habeas corpus relief: this was done on a small scale in 2015 pursuant to another OILS grant. In both of these situations, additional assignment of attorneys was required, and can be expected to result in increased payments in 2016-2017. An additional third grant funded attorney position was added for Family Court, and filled by the end of the year, allowing for much more reasonable distribution as among seven (7), not six (6) attorneys: this was particularly important in light of the fact that Monroe County Family Court added an additional judge. The seven staff attorneys assigned to Monroe County Family Court (including the three grant funded positions), allowed for much more appropriate levels of representation and greatly reduced coverage issues.

It bears repeating that any attempts to compare caseloads as between the Public Defender and Conflict Defender Offices remains problematic as the Conflict Defender attorneys had access to no support staff at all for most of the calendar year 2015: including no secretarial support or paralegal support. The staff positions in the office handle the assigned counsel aspect of the program almost exclusively (aside from file openings and closing). Notably, in comparison, the Public Defender's Office had at least two full-time paralegals assigned to Family Court, and paralegals greatly reduce the amount of office time that attorneys must spend on document preparation, giving the attorneys more time for court appearances, client counseling, and case preparation. Additionally, the demands placed on attorney time by Family Treatment Court and the new Permanency legislation – requiring hearings every six months – continues to pose some coverage issues for the Conflict Defender Office in 2015, though greatly diminished.

The now three grants from the New York State Office of Indigent Legal Services that allowed for the hiring of the three aforementioned full time family court attorneys was a highly effective strategy on all levels in terms of maintaining a high level of representation for clients in Family Court. These three grant positions are each funded for three year terms.

Since the CLE requirements of the Assigned Counsel Program overlap with the Mandatory Continuing Legal Education requirements of the State of New York, compliance is 100%.

"To Provide a Coordinated and Centralized Assignment System for Conflict Cases"

The Assigned Counsel Program is fully computerized, and has been through two-three electronic transformations. The initial program (2003-2010) entered all cases reported in it to a centralized database that tracked the representation from assignment through payment of the voucher for all cases; both Assigned Counsel and Conflict Defender cases. As previously outlined in the 2012 Annual report, it bears brief mention that at the end of calendar year 2011 a new database was purchased for use by the office, and the underlying support system needed for the use of the prior ACP Database was discontinued. This new system was in operation from approximately 2011-present, but during the latter part of 2015 there has been an attempt to replicate and reproduce a system similar to the old system, which might be most efficient. Additionally, there is exploration being done to determine whether the new electronic voucher system can also accommodate the overall conflict case assignment database, exploring the possibility of utilizing one integrated system that would greatly save on time and effort, as well as improve on efficiencies.

Assignments referred by the courts continue to be assigned from a rotating list of available attorneys who are qualified for varying panels: and the panel qualifications, as enhanced in 2014 have been thusly incorporated. The program is very successful in insuring continuity of counsel where a client is re-arrested on new charges, even when the arrests span differing jurisdictions. Additionally, the program continues to track conflict of interest information so that counsel is not unnecessarily assigned when the Conflict Defender Office could ethically continue.

Through the efficiency of the court's requesting assignment of counsel in a timely manner, and the cooperation of the panel members, we were able to insure that no clients went without counsel regardless how short a notice of the next appearance our office received.

While the new database assignment program continued to operate efficiently in terms of conflict analysis and assignment, it remains noteworthy that various distinctive data, unique to ACP, including some information custom designed for capture for this annual report, is no longer available via the newer 2012 system, but that it should also be noted that some new tables of information are again available pursuant to the partial re-establishment of the old system that captured very thorough information. Lastly, it should be noted that there exist certain anomalies in the new program that lead to sometimes inexact total capture, most particularly with respect to dispositional information. *So while the new Database is fine for everyday conflict assignment uses, various information and efficiencies have been forfeited; and this issue remains under review by the current Conflict Defender. These issues remained for the creation of this 2015 Annual report as well (mostly)

*For example, data needed to populate prior tables such as the "costs by panel", "costs by case type", "costs by Judiciary", are no longer available.

"To Provide a More Equitable Distribution of Conflict Assignments Among Lawyers"

While not perfect, the Assigned Counsel Program continues to achieve a significant improvement over the previous system of assignment of conflict cases. The Program constantly strives for new and better systems to distribute assignments more equitably among the participating attorneys. In criminal cases, the current system is highly effective; however, there are still several local criminal courts that do not fully utilize the services of the program in the assignment of counsel. This sometimes leads to a client having multiple attorneys for different pending charges, which can result in uncoordinated representation, as well as increased and unnecessary costs to the taxpayer.

The District Attorney's continued policy change regarding felony hearings causes a situation that skews the assignment distribution toward those attorneys who were most available for assignments. Since we need attorneys very quickly, those available when called got a disproportionate number of assignments: either that happens or the court assigns directly. We are working on development of a system designed to alleviate this problem. Attorneys may notify us of availability on certain dates and at certain times so we may contact them when an assignment opportunity occurs on that date and time. Notice can be emailed, telephoned or faxed to our office. In addition, the first page of our web site contains a form that can be filled out and sent to us.

Equitable distribution of cases remained low in those Family Court cases not represented by the Conflict Defender staff. It remains a goal that a resolution must be found to address the inequities in Family Court assignments. The fact that a very few attorneys receive the bulk of the assignments places an undue burden on those attorneys and can impact directly on the quality of representation. Additionally, more training through the appropriate committee of the Bar Association is necessary to familiarize the panel attorneys with local Family Court practice. The panel requirements for differing levels (custody/neglect versus removal proceedings) of Family Court representation have been revised and panel requirements have been enhanced so that issues regarding quality of representation are addressed.

"To Attract More Lawyers Willing to Handle Conflict Assignments"

Included in this report is a list of new panel members added during the 2015 calendar year, and it should be noted that there were very few applications for panel membership throughout most of 2015, most likely due to the fact that the panels had been updated and expanded in 2014 as part of the efforts of the Conflict Defender to improve the program. The Program continued to take every opportunity to remind the current panel members to apply for the more restrictive panels once they achieve the requisite qualifications. Due to extensive list of attorneys developed over many years, plenty of qualified assigned counsel members on all panels remained available to meet requests for assignment of counsel by the courts.

The initiative to augment panel requirements was launched in the 2013 calendar year by Conflict Defender Charles Noce, Esq., implemented in 2014, and those requirements remained in effect throughout 2015 in an ongoing effort to continue to enhance the requirement for membership on particular panels and to streamline the application process for panel membership.

"To Maintain Uniform and Proper Billing Practices and to Ensure Cost Accountability of Services"

As was the case in previous years, The Administrator reviewed each voucher before processing to insure compliance with the voucher regulations and notified each attorney of any noncompliance to educate the attorney on proper procedures. The review and notification help maintain proper and uniform billing practices among the participating attorneys. Having received a Grant to fund the purchase of an electronic vouchering system, which should greatly improve efficiencies in the future, Mr. Charles Noce, Esq., Conflict Defender, continued to advance this effort, and various logistical aspects were starting to be worked out in the starting in the Fall of 2015. It is hoped that the complete program can be launched by late Spring/early Summer 2016.

The District Attorney's continued policy regarding felony preliminary hearings continued to negatively affect the overall cost of the Assigned Counsel Program. Attorneys continue to spend more time in court and more time attempting to obtain information previously obtained before or during the felony hearing. Additionally, more cases that would have been screened by the felony hearing process were indicted leading to increased time spent in hearings and trials.

"To Provide Increased Efficiency for the Courts"

Courts fully utilizing the services of the Assigned Counsel Program report a positive impact on the efficiency in obtaining assigned counsel in conflict cases. They report a significant decrease in the burden on the court staff in finding attorneys willing to accept assignments, a decrease in the number of phone calls necessary to contact an attorney for assignment, a decrease in the voucher processing time since the vouchers are now clearly labeled as to the matter and already reviewed with comments by the Administrator, and a prompt response from the Assigned Counsel Program in obtaining assigned counsel.

Due in no small part to the number of dedicated attorneys serving on the assigned counsel panels, and the staff attorneys in the Office of The Conflict Defender, a very high quality of representation in all of the criminal, family, and appellate courts was continued in 2015.

2015 Assignments³

The following charts show the assignments each attorney received in 2015. The number of assignments is higher than the number of cases referred because in some cases more than one attorney receives an assignment for a case. Also, an attorney might be assigned in 2015 to a case originally referred in a previous year. This occurs most often after a court relieves one attorney and either the court or the Assigned Counsel Program assigns a new attorney.

Several factors should be considered in looking at these tables. First, approved panel members receive more assignments than non-approved panel members do. Some of the attorneys with a low number of assignments are non-approved panel members. Most often, such an attorney is court assigned. Secondly, those attorneys gaining membership on a panel for the first time during 2015 will have fewer assignments in that panel because they were not on the panel for an entire year. Thirdly, a number of attorneys decline a significant number of assignments, requested removal from the Program for periods of time or resigned from the Program during 2015. While the report includes non-approved attorneys, new panel members, attorneys declining appointments, and attorneys temporarily removed from panels at their own request, concentrating on those members who participated for the full year as approved members of a particular panel gives a truer picture of the equitable distribution of assignments.

The success of the program in achieving equitable distribution of cases is excellent when compared with other New York jurisdictions.

Of particular significance in this report is the fact that in the criminal courts, where the Assigned Counsel Program assigns a large percentage of cases, there is a more even distribution of assignments. This is attributable to the fact that, by comparison, Family Court has a much lower percentage of cases assigned by the Assigned Counsel Program: most assignments are directed by the court. Attaining more equitable distribution of cases is difficult, if not impossible. The Administrator and Advisory Committee must work diligently to provide a workable solution to the inequities of the Family Court assignments. Looking at the last column of the tables, it takes significantly fewer attorneys for the Family Court assignments to reach a high percentage than it does for the criminal court assignments. This is less of a concern since the Conflict Defender Office represents the bulk of the conflict cases in Family Court.

Nonetheless, it is an issue that should be addressed for those cases where the Conflict Defender Office cannot represent the client in Family Court.

- Note: In 2015 a number of cases were assigned to ACP attorneys due to a conflict of interest with The Conflict Defender Office, as well as due to the fact that many cases were so old even at the time of initial assignment that they needed to be assigned out pursuant to an OILS grant to handle the backlog of appeals.

2015 Table of Program Use by Judiciary⁶

The table below shows the number of assignments for each Judge making at least one assignment during 2015. The statistics, between this chart and the attorney assignments, clearly show that Rochester City Court, which assigns the greatest number of cases in the County, is very high in percentage of cases assigned through the Assigned Counsel Program. These facts directly correlate to the fact that the distribution of cases among the attorneys is greatest for criminal cases. Conversely, the statistics show that Family Court has a very low percentage of cases assigned through the Assigned Counsel Program when removing those cases assigned to the Conflict Defender Office.

Judge	ACP	Court	Total
