

Genealogy Records and Resources

What types of records are available from the New York State Department of Health for genealogy research?

Vital records registration started in New York State in 1881. Generally, the New York State Department of Health provides uncertified copies of the following types of records for genealogy purposes:

- Birth certificates – if on file for at least 75 years and the person whose name is on the birth certificate is known to be deceased
- Death certificates – if on file for at least 50 years

Are the time periods ever waived?

The time periods are waived for direct-line descendants. A direct-line descendant is a person who is in the direct line of descent from the decedent such as a child, grandchild, or great-grandchild. The direct line applicant must provide the following:

- Proof of their relationship to the person whose record they are requesting
- Proof of the death of the person whose birth certificate they are requesting
